FORUM USER CONFIGURATION

Once a language has been chosen (in the example, English was selected) , you will see the list of [1] Topics being discussed within this GAMLEC Forum, together with a summary of names, authors, number of replies and times the post has been viewed.

Click on a [2] Post's Name link to view the post.

By clicking on a [3] Post's Author link, you will see this author's activity within the Forum.

You can also start a discussion on a [4] New Topic.

The [5] FORUM USER CONFIGURATION button is available in all sections and enables you to change your user configuration. See the section "Forum User Configuration" below.

The screenshot shows a forum interface with a red header bar containing 'Forum', 'Profile', and 'Logout' links, and a search bar. Below the header, a breadcrumb trail reads 'GAMLEC Forum > Game (EN): Share your experience > Our training is successful!'. The main content area displays a post titled 'Our training is successful!'. On the left, a user profile for 'user @user' is shown with a '1 Post' badge and a 'GAMLEC Usergroup' tag. The post text reads: '#1 · 27th May 2020, 1:55 am', 'We are very happy to share with you the great experience that we were having during the learning process. In the picture you can see how the team is going through the immersion process before starting it. It was really great and we came out with really good solutions! Thank you!'. Below the text, an 'Uploaded files:' section contains a photo of a group of people working at a table. At the bottom of the post, there are icons for replies (0) and likes (0), and a 'Last edited on 27th May 2020, 1:57 am by Deleted user' note. Numbered callouts highlight specific features: 1 points to the like/dislike icons, 2 to the reply icon, 3 to the 'Reply' button, 4 to the 'Quote' button, 5 to the user profile, and 6 to the report icon (triangle with exclamation mark).

When viewing a topic, its content, text, uploaded files, like images, statistics on likes/dislikes and all related replies are shown in that topic detailed page.

There are different ways to participate. You can indicate if you [1] Like or [2] Dislike a post.

You can also share your own experiences and add replies. There are two ways to do this.

Use the [3] Reply button on the top or bottom of any topic page or use the [4] “Quote function to react to a specific reply or comment. This is especially useful when there are many comments and you want to comment on something one person said and refer to them with their user name [5] @user within the text of your reply. This person will also receive an email with a link to the topic.

And if you believe that a topic or a reply is not acceptable, it can be reported by clicking on the [6] Triangle with an exclamation sign on the top-right hand side. The triangle will turn red.

Once you have finished editing, you can either [4] Submit your reply or [5] Cancel it.

We are very happy to share with you the great experience that we were having during the learning process. In the picture you can see how the team is going through the immersion process before starting it.

It was really great and we came out with really good solutions!

Thank you!

3 Thank you very much @user for sharing your experience....

After clicking on “Quote”, a new [1] Post Reply to that message will appear. The system will then copy the entire original message you want to reply to, and automatically place the [2] Quote in a reply at the bottom. You can also shorten the quote by removing parts that are not relevant to your reply. Never ever add something the original author did not say – this is a bad practice!

You can then insert your response below the quote in the [3] Entry text field. Remember that you can mention with [4] @user the person who wrote the post you are replying to.

You can also share images with other Forum members by clicking on [5] Choose File. You can add up to 5. The types of file that are allowed are: jpg, jpeg, gif, png, bmp or pdf. Maximum file size is 5 MB.

Once you have finished editing, you can either [6] Submit your reply or [7] Cancel it.
